The architecture and design event of the year is going to Los Angeles!

Every year the Conference on Architecture travels to an iconic city for what's new and now in architecture and design. In 2020, we're heading to Los Angeles, a city whose architecture has been described as a "visual feast," a "wonderland," and "stunningly beautiful." Don't miss this opportunity on May 14 & 15 to meet face-to-face with thousands of industry influencers all in one place—the wonderland of Los Angeles!

Located in the heart of downtown LA, A'20 will take over the Los Angeles Convention Center with an expo consisting of an estimated 650 exhibiting companies and approximately 160,000 square feet, in two halls. The expo is a crucial element at the event each year, offering attendees the extraordinary can't-miss experience of discovering and sourcing new products and services in a hands-on environment.

“Searching the web is no replacement for the conversations I have with vendors at the expo. The face-to-face contact is invaluable.”

Attendees with purchasing power

Sourcing products and services at the expo is one of the Top Three Primary Reasons attendees come back each year

The majority of attendees state they are responsible for or influence the purchase of products and services for their firm. These architectural professionals attend the expo to evaluate products and services and develop relationships with building product manufacturers.

In fact, research shows that architects rely on building product manufacturers as their second most important resource for learning about products and materials—after architects themselves.

Give your company the opportunity to be seen, considered, and chosen—before the build at A'20!
